

Census areas with the highest household income are almost all located in states with high average incomes.

Two major exceptions are Williamson County, TN, a suburb of Nashville that boasts many of Tennessee's richest, and Los Alamos County, NM, home to a well-paying national laboratory... and not much else.

